February 2022

Well it's a new year!! The Chinese year of the Tiger.

As I stated last month I was taking January off and I did... I had no phone contact but was able to communicate with some via e mail. Looks like I am still not at 100% but I will slowly start to integrate back into the groove using my body as a guide. What that means to you is that larger items may take a while to ship while I get assistance from my close friends. Small items I will be able to handle myself. This is only temporary and although I am told I am doing great... well I kinda don't feel it... but slow and steady wins the race and for all intents and purposes !'M BACK!!!!

Hope you are all well, we had about 8-10 inches of snow a few days ago and although beautiful it put a damper on getting things moving in a positive direction. We got slammed on the east coast! but in a few days it will all melt.
